

Pranav Badrinath

SUO GENERAL
ELECTION 2024

Faculty of Applied Sciences Representative Candidate

My name is Pranav Ramesh Badrinath, and I am a first-year student in the Faculty of Applied Science. I have always been described as an adaptable, dependable, and rational individual striving for positivity and growth. Ever since I was a kid, I have had an inquisitive mindset which has enabled me to bring out the most creative, logical, and cognitive side of me in every sphere. I work and coordinate well while in a team, therefore improving my communication skills with every collaboration that I have endeavored.

Previously, I was the head of the service committee in a rotary club, dedicated in making a difference in the lives of less fortunate. My team and I implemented projects such as blood donation drives, unwrapping happiness (Christmas gifts for kids in homes), weaving tales (an interactive story telling session). I even started a voluntary group in my gated community with over 450 apartments where nearly 20% of the demographic are elderly. Our voluntary group supported them helping them with their daily needs.

I believe that these skill sets and experiences further built onto my leadership abilities and exercised my capacities making me empathetic and accountable as an individual which is why I decided to stand as a representative for the Faculty of Applied Science. I aim to use this opportunity to make constructive changes in the SUO for implementation and provision of useful resources and to create a positive workspace for engineers.
